In 2019, 12-year-old Ava from Falkirk decided to do something special for her birthday. Rather than receive birthday presents, Ava asked her friends for donations to SCIAF. After a great party at an indoor playground Ava discovered that, thanks for the generosity of her friends and classmates, she'd raised over £200!

Ava told us, "I am lucky that I have lots of things. I learned this year that the people SCIAF helps don't have many things, so I wanted to help them."

Her mum said, "I wasn't surprised when she decided to give up her birthday gifts to support SCIAF's work, but I was very proud of her."

Ava added, "The gap between rich and poor is getting bigger. Instead of thinking about ourselves, we should try and help other people."

Nathan and Reuben used their baking skills to raise money and buy SCIAF Real Gifts.

Nathan said "As kids, we don't have loads of money to give but we baked lots of nice things so that other people gave us money so we could buy Real Gifts."
